A Camping Trip in the Mountains

Last weekend, Omar and his family went camping in the mountains. Before leaving, they checked the weather forecast. It said the morning would be sunny, but there might be rain in the afternoon. Omar packed a tent, food, water, and dry clothes.

At first, the weather was clear. The family followed a safe hiking path and enjoyed the fresh air. Omar saw beautiful clouds above the mountains. After lunch, dark clouds appeared, and the wind became stronger. Soon, it was pouring with rain.

Omar wanted to continue hiking, but his father said it was not safe. They returned to their tent and stayed away from tall trees during the thunderstorm. When the rain stopped, the path was muddy and slippery, so they walked carefully.

At the end of the trip, Omar was tired but happy. He learned that checking the forecast, packing suitable equipment, and following safety advice can make camping safer.
