The Right Clothes for Every Season

Maha enjoys outdoor activities, but she knows that the weather changes during the year. In summer, the temperature is high and the days are often sunny. She chooses light, breathable clothes because they help her stay cool. She also carries water and wears a hat when she goes outside.

In winter, Maha sometimes visits the mountains with her family. The air can be freezing, so she wears warm garments that provide insulation. Her jacket helps keep her body warm. She also checks the weather forecast before the trip.

One spring morning, Maha planned to go hiking with her friends. The forecast showed possible rain. She took a waterproof jacket and extra dry clothes. During the hike, it started raining, and the path became muddy. The group walked carefully and returned home safely.

Maha believes that different weather conditions need different clothes and plans. By choosing suitable fabrics and listening to weather warnings, people can enjoy outdoor activities in every season.
